HIGH SCHOOL MASS MEETING

Decided by Unanimous Vote to Instruct the Trustees to Call an Election to Secure Grounds and Erect a $75,000 Building

Notwithstanding the ample notice given, the attendance at the mass meeting last Saturday night at the High School, was comparatively small. Had it not been for a delegation of 30 or 35 voters from Burbank, the audience in the assembly chamber would not have filled one-half the seats. If the result was not satisfactory to the voters, they have no one but themselves to blame for their indifference toward a very important subject. Mr. Wilnot Parcher was chosen chairman and Mr. E. D. Goode acted as secretary of the meeting. As soon as the object of the meeting was stated one of the Burbank delegation made the announcement that the Burbank Grammar school district had with practical unanimity decided to withdraw from the Glendale Union High School District and establish a High School of its own, petitions having already been prepared. Secretary Goode raised a point of order, questioning whether this matter could properly be brought before the meeting, as it had not been included in the call. The chairman sustained the point made and further discussion along that line was cut off. Prof. G. U. Moyses was called upon and stated very clearly the necessity existing for additional school facilities, both grounds and building being inadequate for an up-to-date High School. Mr. L. C. Brand addressed the meeting, urging the necessity for liberal action, as the district is rich and can well afford to have a High School building that will be an ornament to the neighborhood and indicate that Glendale is prosperous and progressive. Speaking directly to the members of the Burbank delegation he advised them to be patient, as the building of an electric road connecting Burbank and Glendale is only a question of time. "Why," said he, "I have told the railroad people that if they don't build that road I will do it myself," and added that when they had an electric road they would have the people that were necessary to the success of a High School. He also advised the people of Tropic to be patient and urged that all stand together in this matter. Mr. Moyses gave figures showing that the assessed value of the Glendale Union High School District is $3,917,471, ranking fourth after Long Beach, Hollywood and San Pedro. Mr. Radcliff of Burbank stated that there are 18 pupils now in attendance here from Burbank, two are going to Los Angeles and one to Hollywood, while there are others who would be glad to have the advantages of a High School education if it was not for the distance they are located from the school. He was sure that Burbank could start in with a larger attendance than was enrolled at this school for the first year. Prof. Hornby of Burbank also spoke in regard to the situation. Mr. Griswold asked that there be no attempt to shut off discussion of the Burbank situation. Mr. Ezra Parker made a motion which was promptly seconded that the trustees be instructed to take the necessary steps and call an election to vote bonds for a new school building and five acres of land, to cost not less than $50,000. This started the debate in lively style and several gentlemen spoke to the question. One speaker from Lomita Park was in favor of the project which he thought should be supplemented by turning the present High School building into grammar school as he objected to sending his children "away up to Steamers Canon where they are compelled to wade through the water when it rains." Mr. Holman added a little to the gayety of the occasion by an offer to contribute his pro rata of high school pupils in any event. Another gentleman from Burbank spoke in favor of the new building, denying that his section was solid on the proposition to withdraw. Mr. Susenmihl addressed the meeting favoring the position of the Burbank people, but was called to order by the chair. Mr. Brand, speaking again to the question, gave it as his opinion that the present High School property is worth $15,000 and must be taken into account as a valuable asset. Mr. Mark Keppel, county superintendent of schools, then addressed the meeting. Mr. Keppel proved to be a master of his subject and made a most convincing speech. He told of the important work being done by the High Schools in the way of fitting young people for the practical business of life. Germany, he said, has attained to the second rank as a nation through the work of her schools, while England through the same cause is rapidly following behind. We must make it easy for every boy and girl to obtain a commercial education if they wish to do so; this is the work the High Schools are particularly adapted to and we must build and equip them liberally with that end in view. He mentioned the fact that in Los Angeles the Polytechnic school receives nearly all the applications for admission, in preference to the two other High Schools in that city. He advised the Tropic people not to be in a hurry for annexation to Los Angeles as the chances of their children for a High School education are infinitely better here on account of the overcrowded condition of the Los Angeles schools. As for Burbank, he believed they would find it difficult if not impossible to withdraw at this time. He also stated that according to a recent law, they would be relieved of all responsibility for the indebtedness of the district when they did withdraw. (We believe Mr. Keppel to be in error as to this—Ed). He believed the sum named in the motion ($50,000) would be inadequate. The building should cost at least $50,000, the land would possibly cost $15,000 and the furnishing $10,000 more. In answer to a question from the secretary, Mr. Keppel stated that he believed it was competent for this meeting to instruct for the purchase of land, although this was not specifically mentioned in the call. (This is also a matter that Mr. Keppel may be in error about—Ed). When Mr. Keppel finished, an amendment was offered by Mr. Griswold to change the amount to $75,000 for a school building, but upon suggestion of Mr. Keppel a substitute for the whole matter was offered by Mr. McClure and carried unanimously instructing the trustees to take the necessary steps for calling an election to vote a bond issue of $75,000 to purchase not less than five acres of land, build and furnish a new High School building.

BURBANK AND VICINITY

Started as a "Boom" Town, has Now Become the Center of an Important and Productive Section—Its Products and Prospects

The Providencia Rancho was owned for many years by David Burbank, who had probably at one time received a diploma entitling him to the prefix of "Doctor" which was frequently attached to his name. He withstood all temptations to subdivide his magnificent property, until the lamented boom of the '80s was within a year or two of its close, when he yielded to the allurements of the real estate boomers and the town of Burbank came into existence. They did things rapidly along about '88 and '89, and things moved swiftly for awhile in the new town which in addition to its natural advantages was promoted by as vigorous a lot of real estate men as ever put a town plot upon the records. A fine hotel building was erected, in the midst of an attractive plot of ground in the center of the town; a brick block sprang into existence and a splendid two story school building far in advance of the requirements of the patrons, was built. Then a furniture factory was erected, costing a good many thousand dollars, and was in actual operation for awhile, some of Burbank's citizens of today having come west to take positions in the factory. A dozen tenement houses were built close to the furniture factory and new residences sprang up in every direction. A street car line was built from the foot of Olive avenue for a mile up toward the mountain. One or two cars actually appeared upon the scene, but the road had not been put into actual operation when the boom collapsed and Burbank, in common with many another product of the "boom" just stopped. But not for long. There was too much merit in the location for any set-back to be permanent. The furniture factory was torn down and carted away, the hotel was converted into an elegant private residence, the lone horse car was an exposed prey of the elements for years before it finally vanished, and went the deponent knoweth not whither, the tenement houses for factory workers vanished and town lots were no longer salable at $500 per. But during this time the rich farm lands down along the river bottom were falling into the hands of men who knew how to get the most out of the soil. Large fields of alfalfa were sowed and proved immensely productive, wells being sunk which furnished an abundant water supply that insured several crops during the season. Corn, pumpkins and the general products of the farm were and continue to be raised in large quantities. Then it was discovered that the rich moist sandy soil was excellently adapted to walnuts and today there are hundreds of acres planted to English walnut trees. There are also some considerable orchards of apples and pears in this rich low land. Within the last two or three years there have been three or four hundred acres set to strawberry plants which are very productive.

While the land down in the valley was being developed by the grower of general farm products, the desirability of the foot hill benches for residence purposes for the culture of deciduous fruit trees, melon, and grapes, was made apparent to the home seekers and a gradual filling up of this section by an intelligent well-to-do class of citizens followed. A very large acreage hereabouts has been devoted during the past few years to the raising of watermelons, and the Los Angeles market is largely supplied by the product of these fields. The growth of this section has been throughout the region generally, so that the town itself has undergone no great change in the last few years; but the large brick block is now filled with prosperous business concerns and the two-story school house is no longer considered too commodious. The last year has been such a prosperous one for the Burbank farmer, that it is only in the ordinary course of events, working from cause to effect that the citizens are now preparing to establish a bank so that the local capitalists may keep their money at home. A second boom is somewhere in store for Burbank, but is held in wholesome check awaiting the advent of the electric car line, which has two or three times seemed almost assured, but has as yet proved elusive. The extension of the tracks of the Pacific Electric from Glendale (only four miles distant) however, is a matter that cannot be long deferred. Meanwhile the farmers of this section being only ten miles distant from the Los Angeles market, the consuming power of which is constantly increasing, are not worrying over existing conditions, as the absence of railroad facilities (Southern Pacific excepted) only means a little harder work in hauling their own products to the market. Acreage is not cheap in Burbank, or to be more exact, it is not low priced; yet there are few sections where land will pay a better income on the investment. In fact Burbank is all right although the writer (living elsewhere) cannot agree with the enthusiastic Burbanker who rashly asserts that "There's no other such site for a town-site in sight of Los Angeles."

GLENDALE, CAL., NOVEMBER 16, 1907

We hear that the Valley Independent has changed hands. Presumably there was transferred with the plant a large surplus of "good will."

There is a wild rumor going the rounds of our busy streets to the effect that two, three or more petitions are in circulation praying for the establishing of a postoffice on Brand Boulevard between Third and Fourth streets.

Postoffices are good things; push one along, please!

And now somebody has gone delving into Virginia's musty archives and discovered that George Washington was a tax dodger. It is alleged that in making a return of property for taxation, he not only told a lie, but swore to it.

We always felt thankful that George is on record as having once lost his temper, because it made him seem a more real historical personage. But this last revelation makes him a bit too modern and we hope that either the archives or the deliver lied.

Editorial Humbug

Many of our contemporaries continue to sell their space to that "interesting article taken from a New York paper giving a simple prescription," etc., and then follows the "Compound" humbug, and what a "well-known druggist says about it."

If the thing appeared as an ordinary advertisement it would merely be on a par with other patent medicines of similar uselessness, but sandwiched in as a news item on an editorial page with the editor's apparent endorsement, it becomes the veriest humbug that ever justified a remark about the "tainted press."

Mental Suggestion

Eight burglaries, two hold-ups and the attempted wreck of a street car constitute a portion of the record of crime in Los Angeles for Saturday and Sunday last.

But according to the remarkably logical code of ethics at present afloat in Glendale, these unpleasant matters should not be mentioned. For possibly the report is not strictly accurate; hence it follows that the hold-up will now be made a certainty, the burglaries more burglariously performed, and the street car sent skidding into the middle of next week—all of which will be justified, because the newspaper said it had been informed that the things had happened.

The power of suggestion is a fearsome thing.

Special Session of the Legislature

Probably before this paper goes to press, Gov. Gillett will have issued a call for an extra session of the legislature. This is apparently rendered necessary by the fact that the continuance of holidays seems advisable for some time to come, and because the tax collectors are keeping to the strict letter of the law and are refusing to accept checks in payment of taxes. The result of this will be that a large proportion of taxes will have to go on the delinquent list on the 26th of November, with the addition of the 15 per cent penalty, unless the legislature frames a law to cover the conditions.

Under present conditions also the courts are tied up and it is desired to have the law so amended that the courts will not be required to close on holidays.

Wall Street and the President

The New York papers with a few honorable exceptions continue to make themselves ridiculous in the eyes of fair minded people by their almost unanimous expression of the idea that the present financial trouble is the result of President Roosevelt's prosecution of "rich malefactors" and corporations that have acted unlawfully. It has not yet been disclosed that Wall street is unanimously in favor of any particular candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency, but Hughes seems to be growing in favor there, which is the only circumstance that reflects suspicion upon his splendid record.

Meanwhile William Howard Taft easily keeps his lead in the race toward the White House and is likely to be distanced by no one, barring the possibilities of hitherto unsuspected wobbling on the part of his chief.

Quite apropos is the following from The Monitor:

"NEWS DATES BACK TO MOSES—On the bulletin board of a large brokerage house in New York on Saturday the following notice was posted, and it attracted a great deal of attention: Five thousand years ago Moses came down from the mount and brought with him a tablet on which was written 'Thou shalt not steal.'"

Two thousand years ago the same advice was preached to mankind.

Today President Roosevelt is giving the same advice, and Wall street thinks it news."

Buy at Home

The lot of a merchant who is attempting to do business in a small town near a large city is not altogether a happy one. He sees people whose patronage he may reasonably expect to receive, go by his place daily with packages as they return from their visit to the bargain counter or the department store in the neighboring town.

These people have their homes in his town, are his neighbors, and would rather see him prosper than not, but in their thoughtlessness withhold from him the assistance that he should be given.

The people of a community ought to be willing to stand by their own institutions even at the sacrifice of a little time and money. The local merchant's price may sometimes be a little higher, and his stock not quite so fresh as that of his larger competitor, but these defects will be remedied if you are patient with him, because it is clearly to his interest to please. Of course, if the local dealer presumes upon the idea that the people will patronize him anyhow regardless of all questions of price or ac-

A Difficult Problem

It is said that John D. Rockefeller wrote to Count Tolstoi asking his advice as to the best disposition of wealth. This statement may or may not be true; but the alleged reply of Tolstoi is what might be expected of the noted writer. He says: "Wealth is incompatible with an absolutely good life," and concludes by quoting the words of Jesus: "If thou wilt be perfect, sell all that thou hast and give to the poor and follow me."

It is not probable that Mr. Rockefeller asked the advice of Tolstoi, or that he asked it in the spirit that prompted the inquiry of the rich young man. But it is not uninteresting to speculate upon the query as to how the great millionaire could best dispose of his money should he decide to relieve himself entirely of the burden of it.

We can imagine a hundred different answers that might be given in all sincerity by as many different people, every one of whom would be positively assured in his own mind that his way was the best. The religious enthusiasts of a hundred different sects would recommend its dedication to the dissemination of their own particular gospel; the social economists of infinite variety would have it used for the propagation of their tenets; the educational specialist would have schools and libraries endowed, and the worker in the slums would have it poured into the empty pockets of the poor.

As a matter of fact, the wise distribution of a hundredth part of the wealth of a Rockefeller would be a problem of stupendous difficulty, and distributed by the hand of unwisdom would be just as likely to be baneful as beneficial. The giving of alms wisely is a difficult thing; and promiscuous giving, while it may result from the impulse of a pure heart and lay up for the giver "treasure in heaven," is as likely to be followed by a crop of evil upon the earth.

It is questionable whether Mr. Carnegie's vast bequests to libraries (that must bear his name) have been an unmixed blessing, altho it would be ungracious to say that he has not done great good by this disposition of millions.

Altogether Mr. Rockefeller is to be commiserated upon the serious problem which he is possibly endeavoring to solve and the latter part of his life in which he tries to give it away, promises to be as strenuous as the years devoted to its accumulation.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Editor, Glendale News:

As you have seen fit, to criticize socialism and those who hold socialistic views, I know you will be liberal and fair enough, to give space for a brief reply. We are glad to know that you believe that the theory of socialism is "beautiful in the abstract," and yet surprised at your statement that one who has a leaning to the good and beautiful, and makes an exhaustive study of the subject comes out no better prepared to form an intelligent or independent opinion of it than the one who has given the subject no thought whatever.

As well tell us that the heathen can form as correct and intelligent opinion of Christianity as the bible student, by merely acquainting himself with some professed Christians or observing some of the effects of our so-called Christian civilization.

If it is true as you assert that the race is governed wholly by selfishness, then you are right that socialism is impracticable; if selfishness is the predominating impulse then we are only fit for plunder, graft, and robbery.

If socialism is impracticable, then Christianity is impracticable for the "ethics of socialism are identical with Christianity"; if socialism is impracticable then the golden rule is impracticable and you should teach "Do your neighbor before he does you."

But we refuse to believe with you we are wholly governed by selfishness; if that were true there would be no progress, for all that is good in our government is socialistic and has been prompted by the motive to do good to our fellow man. Our public institutions prove that we recognize the fact that we are our brother's keeper. Every institution of philanthropy, every public school, etc., proclaim the fact that we are our brother's keeper. Socialism carries that fact to its logical conclusion. And some day we will recognize another stupendous fact, that in the end there is no other rule practicable for the individual or the nation but the golden rule. The final wind up of any other rule or policy is disaster. It is only another way of saying, "that the wages of sin is death."

We fail to understand you when you speak of the fruits of socialism. As well speak of the fruit of a tree that has never been planted.

Again you speak of applied socialism. As yet there is no such thing, for applied socialism is applied Christianity. If we had applied Christianity we would have no squandering of the nation's wealth in preparing for murder. We would have no false aristocracy of wealth, we would not have the present fear of want and disaster, we would have no grafters, no legalized robbery, we would not have the minds and bodies of ten thousand children destroyed by incessant toil in mines and factories of the millionaires.

We would not have the workers producing three thousand dollars per annum and living on four hundred and thirty-six (Carroll D. Wright). We would not have suicide, insanity, poverty and crime on the increase as they are today for applied Christianity would mean genuine prosperity, peace, and happiness. Let me say that this question is up for settlement and it will never be settled till it is settled right (Lincoln).

Socialism is commanding the best thought of the world today and it behooves every one to make a thorough study of its principles, see whether they are based on justice and righteousness. If its principles are founded on eternal truths, they will win out in spite of all opposition; if they are not so founded they will fail without opposition.

If you would really prove socialism to be wrong, prove to us that haphazard effort is better than organized; that dishonesty is better than honesty. In short prove that Paul was wrong when he said "he that will not work neither shall he eat"; that the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God is a myth. Prove that the sermon on the Mount and the teachings of the New Testament are visionary and impracticable. When you have done this and not until then will you have annihilated socialism.

For more than half a century socialism has withstood the fiercest attacks of the ablest critics and the most base misrepresentation, and not one of its fundamental principles has been shaken, and today it stands as the most significant and only intelligent political movement the world has ever known.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The regular meeting of the club last Tuesday was well attended. After the transaction of routine business and the adoption of the resolutions in regard to the library, that appear elsewhere, the program of the day was taken up. The subject was the Colonization period in American History and was very ably handled in two papers read by Mrs. Jas. A. Farrell and Mrs. E. S. Comstock. The papers were full of interesting facts in connection with the formation of the thirteen colonies, and presented a fund of information in attractive form.

There was some discussion in reference to the District Convention of Women's Clubs which is to be held at Monrovia on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The proceedings of this convention promise to be of unusual interest. The late President, Mrs. E. D. Buss of Bakersfield, will preside and Mrs. Florence Porter, president of the District Federation, will also be present. Mrs. F. G. Taylor will attend as a special delegate from this club, but it is hoped that a good number of Glendale club women will be in attendance.

former days, Miss Bertha Patterson. The affair will be given as a package shower and efforts have been made to have the pretty event as unique and original as possible.

Mr. J. L. Whitaker and family have moved into Los Angeles for the winter. Mr. Reginald Whitaker is with the Owens River aqueduct surveyors beyond Mojave.

Dr. Barabe, a brother of Mrs. L. F. Hadrich, has returned to Glendale which he visited a few months ago and is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hadrich. He came direct from Michigan, where snow was falling when he left. He will probably locate in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Hillis, a guest at the Glendale Sanitarium, lost a very valuable gem-set brooch which was more than three hundred years old, last Sunday evening in or near the First Presbyterian church. It was an heirloom, and of a pattern impossible to reproduce in modern times.

Mr. David Filger and Miss Stella Filger, uncle and sister of Mrs. R. A. Peterson, of Adam street, have arrived in Glendale from their home in Illinois, and are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson. They will probably spend the winter in Glendale. This Mr. Filger's tenth winter in California.

Don't buy anything to eat until November 23d. The Delicatessen Counter will supply your wants for Sunday and for Monday's school lunches.

At the Baptist church Sunday at 11 a.m. the pastor's subject will be "The Sure Foundation," and at 7:30 p.m., "Gode's Baal." Come in time for the young people's meeting at 6:45 p.m. and for the Sunday school at 10 a.m. Last Sunday afternoon a Junior was organized under good leaders and with a large attendance. This will meet every Sunday at 3 p.m. until further notice.

The lecture given by Prof. Winsett at the Presbyterian Church last Friday evening was not so well attended as it deserved to be and although several of those present announced their desire to join a class in vocal music, there were not enough to justify starting one. The Professor was to try again last evening at the Presbyterian Church, and we hope he met with success, as a class in singing ought to be recognized as a "long felt want."

A "totally new kind" of a Candy Booth. Home-made candies galore. The kind that melt in your mouth. November 23d.

Although turkeys raised in Glendale are running light in weight, on account of a rather wet spring, they are in excellent condition and by Thanksgiving will run from twelve to fourteen pounds per head. Lyon & Co. of Los Angeles report today that the price per pound for breeders will be about twenty-four to retail at thirty-five cents or more in the open market. Mr. C. N. Peck of Third street has 85 and on a ranch near Verdugo there are over 300 ready for the market.

Such Sandwiches! Yum, yum! And Brown Bread and Beans; Biscuits, Salads, Pies, Cakes, Cookies, Fruits and Jellies. Just you wait till the 23d.

We are glad to hear favorable reports from our former fellow townsmen, L. C. Wardell and W. J. Jones, both are in the Owens River country near Bishop. Mr. Wardell has been employed at the power plant at Bishop during the past summer. Mr. Jones has good prospects in both a ranch and a gold mine which together threaten to make a millionaire of him before he gets time to run back to Glendale and say good by to old friends. Mr. Campbell, who was formerly in the meat store here is also in that vicinity and prospering.

Ever have any Gingerade? Get some November 23d. Quaintly gowned maidens will serve it for five cents a glass.

The Rev. Geo. Soltan, who has been addressing the Christian people of Glendale with great acceptance during the past week, will preach at the Presbyterian church in the morning and in the M. E. church in the evening of November, 17th. Those who have already heard him will be glad of these opportunities to hear him again as his addresses have been a great stimulus and help to them. Those who have not heard him should embrace this opportunity as it will be the last, since he has other engagements to January 1st. There will be no service in the Presbyterian church in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cornwell, have returned from a three months' visit to their home in Arkansas. Mr. Cornwell limps a little as the result of an 18 mile tramp which he performed one day when he was in a hurry to get somewhere, but otherwise is all right and is rapidly becoming rejuvenated as he continues to inhale our climate. His vacation was spent in the Ozark mountains where he found many acres of the black jack timber land that he used to know, converted into apple orchards, the fruit of which is selling at from three to three fifty per barrel, altho of inferior quality as compared with the average. The late frosts made the apple crop a failure in the most of the state.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Glendale Presbyterian church will hold an all-day meeting on Tuesday, November 19th, at the home of Mrs. H. N. Harris, corner Third and Cedar streets, beginning at 10 a. m. The forenoon will be occupied with the regular business of the society, and the presentation of plans for work among the Mexican and Japanese populations of this valley. After refreshments and a social hour, the time from two to four o'clock will be given to addresses. Korea, our foreign topic, will be discussed by one who has been in that field—Mrs. J. H. Stewart, of Highland Park; while the home topic, work among the Mexicans, will be presented by Miss Ida Boone, who has been identified with that work in Los Angeles the past twenty-five years. Basket lunch. Our newcomers will be especially welcome.

Local Financial Conditions

Cashier Williams, of the First National Bank informs us that business is moving along under normal conditions. The bank has not found it necessary to take advantage of the holidays, but is cashing the checks of its depositors as usual. Very little scrip has been received and is being passed back over the counter with other money, being taken freely by everyone.

At the Bank of Glendale similar conditions prevail, Mr. Vesper reporting that reserves and deposits have considerably increased since the holidays were inaugurated. Scrip is circulating freely, as the reports of counterfeiting have been shown to be without foundation.

Both banks report the number of their depositors having increased considerably since the period of financial uncertainty began.

About the only difference noticeable in the banks' business is the fact that they are not accommodating the general public in the way of cashing checks on other banks to the extent that they do in normal times. This does not affect their own depositors, however, who are accommodated as usual; it only causes a little trouble for transients who wish to convert outside checks into cash.

Those who have promised donations for the affair can leave parcels at the following places: Miss Ida M. Waite's, Third and Glendale avenue; Mrs. George Williams, Cedar street near Third; Mrs. Frank Albright's, Orange street; Mrs. Gillelan's, North Glendale; Mrs. Daniel Campbell's, and at I. O. O. F. hall. Please be prompt with deliveries and don't forget the time.

Improved Salesroom

Mr. Cecil E. Shaver, who bought out the Currier Grocery in the Watson Block, is showing his good business qualities and his faith in Glendale by important changes in his storeroom, which have not only added to its attractiveness, but have very greatly increased its capacity. A counter which ran lengthwise of the store has been removed and put in the rear, and additional shelving added. Over the rear end an attic office has been established with a small desk, which adds to the storage capacity.

Mr. Shaver has made large additions to the stock obtained from Mr. Currier, and another shipment of goods is on the way, the stock already being very complete in staple lines.

Southern California Gas Circuit Company

This company has secured an option on a site near Colegrove with the idea of establishing a plant there, that place being located near to the La Brea oil wells. It is said that the other two rival companies of Los Angeles have contracted to supply more gas than they can furnish for two years to come, which makes a very promising outlook for the new company, in which some of our local capital is interested.

The Los Angeles Basket factory, of which Mr. H. P. Thornton is manager, is putting in the foundation for two buildings near the Tile Works and it is understood will move their entire plant out here from Los Angeles. This is the concern that supplies all the berry boxes for this section and it will probably give employment to 100 or 150 workers.

MRS. RUE D. MEEKE AT ODD FELLOWS HALL.

The attendance at Odd Fellows Hall Tuesday evening last, was not as large as the merit of the performance warranted. But those present were delighted with the entertainment which gave them an hour and forty minutes of solid enjoyment.

Mrs. Meeke is an elocutionist of sufficient experience to enable her to be perfectly at home on the platform and her manner is delightfully natural. While her selections were generally of a humorous character, she gave such pieces as "Over the Hill from the Poorhouse," in a manner that left nothing to be desired in the way of sympathy and pathos. Her ventriloquism was an excellent part of the performance and was thoroughly enjoyed. It is to be hoped that Mrs. Meeke may be induced to return to Glendale and give an opportunity to the rest of our people aside from those present last Tuesday night, to enjoy her art.

N. P. BANKS' PARTY.

The masquerade party given by N. P. Banks Woman's Relief Corps Friday evening proved one of the most delightful social diversions given by the corps, for some time past. Over one hundred and fifty persons appeared masked. Mrs. Bert Burlingham represented Morning in a beautiful gown of gauze and brilliant trimmings, while Mrs. Charles Peckham appeared as Night in a handsome gown of black gauze with gold trimmings. Mrs. W. R. Light was a merry French girl. Lads and lasses from Cork, Germany and the country were most prominent, while a large quota of the maskers were representatives of the sons of Ham.

The ladies are contemplating giving a Colonial party shortly, when the minuet will be given by prominent persons attired in full Colonial costumes.

MRS. HOBBS ENTERTAINS.

A special all-day meeting of the Thursday Afternoon Club was held at the residence of Mrs. John Hobbs, Thursday, at which the officers and members worked most diligently in arranging pretty bright colored pages for a number of scrap books which will be presented to the Day Nursery and Victoria Home, during the merry Christmas tide. This happy plan was suggested to utilize the large number of pretty pictures contained in a number of magazines and periodicals of previous years, which have accumulated on the public library shelves. A most pleasant and profitable day was enjoyed.

Twenty-seven new books, a large number of which are juvenile books, have been added to the public library recently.

Loos on Loose Dogs

Queer, isn't it, how people differ in disposition and tastes, and how many hobbies all cater to? Not long since the cows and chickens were declared nuisances by nearby residents of hen roosts and dairies. The latter very easily become a nuisance to anybody living near them. One citizen wrote the mayor a grievance because the chanteleers would announce the approach of another day hours before daylight was due, and disturbed his slumbers. Result, ordinance against chickens in certain districts. Now comes a complaint to the mayor about barking dogs all day and all night, and the dogs "jump at your pants legs" the communication says. A man cannot well go down town without taking his pants legs with him, and neither does it look well for him to carry his pants legs high over his head where the dogs cannot jump and grab them. If he wears a joint of stovepipe over each leg Dr. Cogwell will yank him up for cruelty to animals. When a dog once acquires the habit of jumping at pan's legs he is apt, as time goes on, to become ambitious and aim higher. This is said to be even more disconcerting, and to gentlemen who do desk work it has its drawbacks. Of course the mayor will have to do something. Possibly the easiest settlement of the matter would be to adopt an ordinance compelling the owners of dogs to have their teeth pulled—the dogs' teeth, we mean.—K. Beers Loos, in San Diego Herald.

A Merry War at Edendale

The citizens of Edendale are after the Glendale branch of the Interurban Railway Company with a sharp stick. It seems that the railway tracks along Alessandro street are about twenty feet below the grade of the streets, and the people want the railroad company to build retaining walls. The end of the sharp stick has a little persuader attached to it which the Edendale people are rashly threatening to jab into that portion of the railroad company's anatomy where it will do the most good. This consists of a flaw in the franchise of the Glendale line; the safe franchise failing, it is claimed, to cover two blocks through the chaste precincts of Edendale. The Board of Public Works of Los Angeles has suggested that the Edendale citizens give an extra ten feet along the right of way for street purposes, and that the railroad company build retaining walls at least half way up the bank. This will prevent the Edendale citizen who wanders from the straight and narrow pathway after night from plunging down more than ten feet, provided that the retaining wall retains him. In view of this contingency, we suggest to our Edendale neighbors that they ought to insist on catch baskets also; but there is a limit even to the efficacy of a sharp stick, and perhaps the point need not be pushed.

Citrus fruit shipments from Southern California during the season just ended approximated 27,500 carloads against 25,964 for the preceding twelve months. Of this 22,984 carloads were oranges and 3,915 cars of lemons. The $23,000,000 received by the growers does not represent all the proceeds received from the fruit, for the railroads come in for their share, $11,000,000 for freight and icing making a total of $34,000,000 for the gross return.—Whittier Register.

Was Overpowered

Bound hand and foot, and gagged, the maiden was put in a gunny sack and unable to move or scream, she felt herself being carried down a flight of stairs, put into a buggy and then driven madly down the street. ~~Finally she tried to release herself~~ from the gag. Alas, she was bound too securely. Finally the conveyance was stopped. She was again carried into a building; fainting and gasping for breath, she was taken from the sack. The villain still masked, took the gag from her mouth, his eyes gleaming like coals of fire through his black mask. Releasing her he hissed through his tightly clenched teeth: "There my pretty bird, scream and yell as loud as you like, no human ear will ever hear you. You are in my power. Do you hear? Totally in my power."

"Where am I?" she gasped. "In a store that never advertises," came the cruel response. "Alas, alas," she moaned. "No power on earth can save me; no one will look for me here." Then the poor girl fainted.—Bluejacket News, Indian Territory.

LIQUOR LICENSE ELECTION AT SIERRA MADRE.

At the election held at Sierra Madre last week to decide the question of license or no license, the vote was 47 for and 81 against.

The campaign was a warm one, Dr. Chapman, of the Anti-Saloon league, delivering a lecture on the subject a few days before the election; dwelling particularly on the idea that a liquor license is a necessary feature of a tourist hotel, citing numerous cases of marked success where no such privilege was granted.

During the year ending November 1st, Hollywood has issued warrants to contractors for street work under the Vrooman act, amounting to $101,812.90. The money was expended on 14 streets and represents the improvement of seven and a quarter miles of roadway. This includes only completed work under public contract and does not take in a large amount of work done under private contract.—Citizen.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

At the Basket-ball game on Saturday last the members of the girls' team sold lemonade and candy making $6.41 for swelling the fund to be used in the purchase of handsome suits to be made before the girls' league opens.

The Basket-ball game last Saturday between Alhambra's fast team and the home squad on the Glendale Court, called out an enthusiastic crowd which witnessed as classy and speedy a game as could be asked for. The home boys winning with a score of 32 to 30. At the end of the first half lasting 20 minutes, the score stood 12 by 12. End of second half 30 by 30 and a tie off had to be played amid the wildest excitement. Sprinkle made the winning basket. How the rooters howled!

Taylor at center, did some fine work, though Williams proved equal to catching the ball on the toss up. Stine did phenomenal guarding, as did Goodsell. Emory and Sprinkle were in fine form.

The line-up:

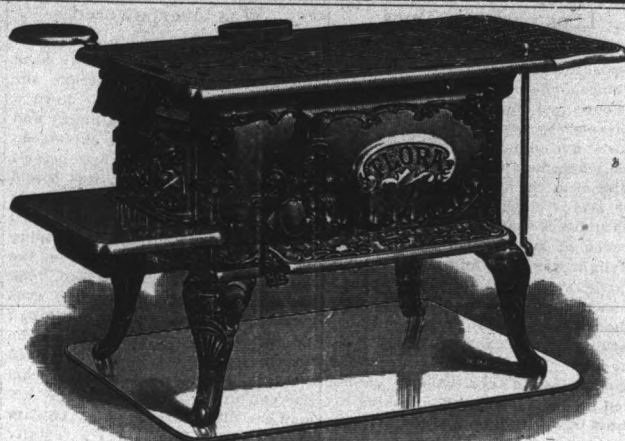

Alhambra. Glendale.
T. Williams...Forward... Sprinkle
Moran .....Forward..... Goodsell
Gates .....Center..... Taylor
McLean .....Guard..... Emery
F. Williams .....Guard..... Stine
Coach—Prof. Howe.
Referee—J. L. Cartright.
Umpire—Fanset.
Length of halves, 20 minutes.

Report cards were received on Wednesday giving records of work for the first semester, to the joy (?) of the majority of the pupils.

The boys' basket-ball team would appreciate nothing more than handsome new suits in which to appear in the League games. It seems that some effort has been made by the business men interested to supply them as Glendale has a team of which it is very proud, and should put up a good appearance away from home while representing us, as well as before company on the home court.

On the home court on Saturday morning the tennis played represented some pretty good playing between the home experts and those of Whittier High School. A series of games resulted as follows: McPeak lost to Buckmaster in the first event, score 6-4, 6-3. In the second Walton captured the event from Thomas 6-4, 1-6, 6-3. In the double, McPeak and Walton won from Thomas and Buckmaster 6-4 6-3. The finals will be played in the near future at Whittier, when ladies' events will be features.
